

Worth the Splurge

FARMHOUSE FRESH

A multitude of materials reveals the versatility of this much-loved kitchen classic.

WRITER Mallory Abreu

A perennial favorite, this fireclay sink is handcrafted using the same techniques from over 120 years ago. Shaws Original Lancaster Apron Front Fireclay Kitchen Sink in White ($1,811). Rohl; rohlhome.com

This stately vintage-inspired design includes an integrated backsplash that is as much a focal point as it is a protective element. Country Kitchen Sink in White Vitreous China ($1,095). American Standard; americanstandard.com

A double-bowl sink made of solid copper is a textural delight. Fiona Double-Bowl Hammered Copper Farmhouse Sink ($1,600). Signature Hardware; signaturehardware.com

Installing an apron-front sink that's undermount or single-bowl can help conserve space in the kitchen.

Finished with a penetrating sealer, this Carrara marble sink strikes the perfect mix of luxury and practicality. Polished Front Farmhouse Sink in Carrara Marble ($3,825). Stone Forest; stoneforest.com

A sleek and simple design makes a modern statement. Strive Self-Trimming Undermount Sink with Tall Apron in Stainless Steel ($1,149). Kohler; kohler.com

Impervious to acid, chemicals, and water, soapstone cleans up nicely for a practical, polished look. Wells Soapstone Farmhouse Sink, custom (price upon request). Vermont Soapstone Co.; vermontsoapstone.com

Worth the Splurge

Gentle ridges texture this sink's exterior, while enameled cast iron and a low barrier divider make for a seamless and sensible basin. Whitehaven Hayridge Apron-Front in White ($1,899). Kohler; kohler.com

Polished copper is hand-hammered for a textural, artisan touch. Farmhouse 30 in Polished Copper ($2,650). Native Trails; nativetrails.net

Resistant to abrasions and extreme temperatures, this glossy fixture is as chic as it is hardworking. Reinhard Fireclay Farmhouse Sink in Sapphire Blue ($750). Signature Hardware; signaturehardware.com

A curved front and elemental rustic finish make this stone sink stand out. Farmhouse Quartet in NativeStone Ash ($1,795). Native Trails; nativetrails.net